She for Sea: Good Practices in Gender equality in the Atlantic maritime economy

Atlantic Cities cooperate to promote the role of women in the maritime economy

If a sad lady waiting and longing for her husband to return from distant shores is what you picture when thinking about women and the sea... well, think again. She for Sea is a project showing how women can be at the wheel of the maritime sector and how this creates a better, more inclusive and representative blue economy. By means of interviews, events and awareness raising campaigns in Atlantic cities, She for Sea is showing how women are embracing careers in fisheries, marine biology, blue-biotechs and ocean-inspired creative industries, therefore creating new opportunities for girls to imagine a career by the sea.

"She for Sea" is a project launched in 2016 by the Conference of Atlantic Cities, it is an example of good practice towards promoting the role of women in maritime affairs.
